Destiny, karma and fortitude shape much of what unfolds in life. But sometimes, all that stands between ability and achievement is opportunity. For some, opportunity is abundant. For many, it is scarce — delayed, distant, or never quite within reach.

We were raised in the ethos of hard work, diligence and sound judgement. Our fathers taught us that effort must be honest, decisions must be thoughtful, and success must carry responsibility. From those values, ANG and its companies were built. What stands today is not only the result of enterprise, but of guidance, blessings and the steady hands that shaped us.

ANGNurture is our gratitude in action.

It is our acknowledgement that what we have received cannot remain personal. It must circulate. Because very often, the challenge is not a lack of talent — it is a lack of access. Skill without exposure fades. Potential without encouragement retreats. Courage without support struggles to rise.

Across education, sport, mental health and vocational development, ANGNurture supports individuals and institutions that create pathways where none existed before. These are not grand gestures. They are deliberate steps — enabling a student to continue learning, an athlete to train, a young mind to receive care, a skill to find expression.

We cannot alter destiny. We can widen the opportunities, sometimes.

And sometimes, that widening is enough to change the course of a life.

That, to us, is both gratitude and responsibility.

Introduction to

Vision & Strategy

ANG's vision has always been rooted in building things that last. Not only businesses, but values. Not only growth, but grounding.

The Foundation carries that same intent.

In 2024–25, we chose depth over dispersion. We chose continuity over noise. We strengthened partnerships that are doing meaningful work quietly and consistently. We asked not “How much can we do?” but “Where can we truly matter?”

This year was not about expansion. It was about alignment — ensuring that our support reflects who we are and what we believe.

Impact, to us, is not visibility.

It is a responsibility sustained over time.

Overview of Thematic Pillars

Our work is guided by areas that reflect both need and conviction.

Sport & Youth Development

Because discipline, resilience and belief are often built on fields before they are built in life.

Education

Because confidence begins in classrooms where children feel seen, supported and capable.

Classical Dance & Expression

Because tradition lives through practice, not memory.

Women & Skill Empowerment

Because independence and opportunity must be practical, not theoretical.

Health & Mental Well-being

Because care — especially for the mind — remains fragile in many communities, yet foundational to human dignity.

Community & Compassion Initiatives

Because responsibility extends to the ecosystems — social and cultural — that sustain us.

Across each pillar, the intention is the same: to create conditions where ability finds expression.

Mother Miracle School

Every morning in Rishikesh, children walk into Mother Miracle School carrying more than schoolbags. Many carry uncertainty, fragile confidence, and the quiet weight of circumstances they did not choose. What they find inside the school gates is something rare. Consistency. Care. And the steady message that they matter.

Mother Miracle School was built on the idea that education must do more than prepare children for exams.

It must prepare them for life. For students from underprivileged backgrounds, this distinction is critical. Learning here happens in classrooms, but also in dance rooms, on sports fields, in moments of stillness during yoga and meditation, and in the daily practice of values that shape character as much as competence.

The school's approach is deliberate and holistic. Academic rigour is matched with opportunities for creative expression, physical development, and emotional grounding. Children are encouraged to ask questions, explore their interests, and develop confidence alongside their capabilities. The goal is not short-term performance, but the deeper work of helping a child discover their own sense of possibility. This philosophy has produced results that are both visible and sustained.

Since 2015, Mother Miracle School has been recognised as the best school in Rishikesh every year. Its students have won 490 awards across academics, sports, and cultural activities. These achievements reflect more than talent. They reflect an environment where children are supported to try, to fail safely, and to grow.

Atripsha is part of this environment. At school, she moves through her day with purpose. From classrooms to computer labs, from creative activities to sports and yoga, her learning is shaped by structure and encouragement. Access to technology expands her horizons. Participation in extracurricular programs strengthens her confidence. Daily nutrition supports her ability to focus, engage, and learn without distraction.

Her progress is closely observed, not just through marks, but through how she shows up. Teachers pay attention to curiosity, confidence, and engagement. Over time, learning becomes something she owns. Self-belief begins to take root.

This is what Mother Miracle School does every day. It creates the conditions in which children can move from surviving to thriving. From uncertainty to aspiration. From being taught to believing.

Intent

Access to Education

Ensuring uninterrupted K–12 English education for a child from an underprivileged background.

Learning Infrastructure

Providing the tools, materials, and environments required for daily learning.

Holistic Development

Integrating physical, creative, emotional, and cognitive growth into education.

Community Continuity

Using education as a long-term investment in individual and collective progress.

Execution

Academic Continuity

Sponsorship of Atripsha's K–12 education

Regular coordination with teachers and school staff

Learning Environment

Books, notebooks, and art materials

Access to 4 computer labs with 129 computers

Health and Wellbeing

Daily nutrition support including breakfast milk and full lunch

Participation in yoga and daily meditation

Growth and Guidance

Participation in arts, sports, music, and dance

Periodic mentorship and academic guidance

Outcome

- Improved learning engagement
- Increased confidence and motivation
- Balanced academic, physical, and emotional development

Why This Matters

Supporting one student within a high-performing school strengthens individual outcomes while reinforcing a proven educational ecosystem.

Continuity

Sustained Support

Continued educational and holistic support for Atripsha

Capability Deepening

Introduction of additional digital tools and mentorship inputs

Monitoring

Regular assessment and follow-ups with teachers

Scalability

Exploring opportunities to support more students at Mother Miracle School

Impact endures when support is consistent, contextual, and grounded in strong institutions.

Anandi Seva Prakalp

In Palli, Haryana, Anadi Seva Prakalp stands as a quiet response to a difficult reality. Many elderly individuals reach a stage of life without family support, financial security, or stable shelter. For them, vulnerability is not temporary. It is structural.

Founded in 1996, Anadi Seva Prakalp was created to ensure that age would not mean neglect. Today, the home cares for 47 residents, providing shelter, nutritious meals, medical facilities, and daily engagement that restores routine and dignity. Here, care is not limited to survival needs. It extends to companionship, participation, and the preservation of self-worth.

At the centre of this effort is Pranavendra Narayan Shukla, who began the initiative at the age of nineteen after being moved by an early act of compassion toward an elderly man. Born in Arunachal Pradesh in 1975 and educated with an MBA from Symbiosis in 1999, he chose a path shaped less by profession and more by conviction. Over time, he expanded the home's services to include healthcare, structured nutrition, and end-of-life care for residents without family.

His approach has always combined compassion with sustainability. In 2009, he established a dairy farm with Gir cows, which now number 138. The milk produced supports the home's operations, creating a steady resource base rather than reliance on episodic donations.

Organic farming initiatives further reinforce a commitment to chemical-free food and environmental responsibility.

Under his leadership, Anadi Seva Prakalp has grown into more than an old age home. It has become a community anchor, recognised through awards such as the Neelkanth Award, Best Youth Volunteer for Social Excellence, and the Faridabad Gaurav Samman. Yet the measure of its impact lies not in recognition, but in the daily rhythm of care provided to each resident.

ANG Foundation's support is directed toward strengthening this ecosystem of dignity. By reinforcing nutrition, infrastructure, sustainability, and outreach, the Foundation contributes to ensuring that elderly residents live not in isolation, but in stability and respect.

This is care that is structured, not symbolic. Sustained, not seasonal. Designed so that age is met with belonging.

Intent

Dignified Living

Ensuring safe shelter, nutrition, and healthcare for elderly residents.

Sustainable Operations

Strengthening long-term viability through income-generating initiatives.

Essential Resources

Providing clothing, furniture, utensils, and medical support for daily comfort.

Community Engagement

Encouraging participation, volunteerism, and collective responsibility.

Execution

Nutrition and Sustainability

Contribution toward the purchase of Gir cows

Facilitation of milk and dairy sales in South Delhi, Gurgaon, and Faridabad

Support for organic farming practices

Daily Living Support

Clothing for seasonal needs

Utensils, furniture, bedding, and essential household items

Volunteer Engagement

Mobilisation of volunteers and local communities for resident welfare

Community and Outreach

Organisation of Bhandaras for residents and underprivileged communities

Publicity and outreach to strengthen support networks

Infrastructure Development

Assistance in securing land allotment from the Government of Haryana

Commitment to supply marble, granite, and construction materials for a modern facility

47

elderly residents at Anadi Seva Prakalp

Improved nutrition and healthcare access

Enhanced comfort, safety, and living conditions

Sustainable revenue through dairy production

Stronger community engagement and volunteer participation

Why This Matters

By combining care with sustainability, the home ensures that dignity for the elderly is not dependent on short-term generosity but supported through structured systems.

Ongoing Welfare

Continued support for nutrition, medical care, and daily needs

Holistic Enhancement

Strengthening recreational, cultural, and engagement programs for residents

Community Deepening

Expanding volunteer and donor participation

Infrastructure Advancement

Progress toward a modern, purpose-built facility for long-term care

Continuity

Dignity in old age is not an act of charity. It is a commitment to continuity, care, and respect.

Arpan and Arpana

For many children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, education is fragile. It is often interrupted, uneven, or shaped by circumstances beyond their control. Arpan and Arpana exist precisely to counter this fragility with consistency, care, and commitment.

For years, both organisations have focused on one clear purpose: ensuring that children have access to structured education up to Class 9, delivered in both English and Hindi. This bilingual approach is not incidental. It allows students to learn with comprehension and confidence, building strong academic foundations while remaining rooted in familiar language and context.

What distinguishes Arpan and Arpana is not scale, but steadiness. These are learning environments where children are known by name, progress is observed closely, and education is treated as a long-term relationship rather than a short-term intervention. Academic instruction is supported by life skills, values-based learning, and personal development, recognising that growth must be intellectual, emotional, and social.

A defining strength of these institutions lies in the people who show up, year after year. One of ANG Foundation's Director's wives has taught children at Arpan and Arpana consistently for many years, offering guidance in both English and Hindi.

Her presence has brought continuity, personal attention, and mentorship that goes beyond curriculum delivery. For students, this consistency builds trust. For learning, it creates depth.

Within classrooms that prioritise care as much as discipline, children begin to develop confidence in their own abilities. Communication improves. Curiosity deepens. Education becomes something they can rely on, not something they fear losing.

This is the quiet work Arpan and Arpana do every day. They hold the learning journey steady, so that children can focus on growing into who they are capable of becoming.

Outcome

What changed

Improved academic performance in English and Hindi

Stronger communication skills and self-confidence

Personal and social development alongside learning

Why This Matters

Consistent education and mentorship expand future opportunities for higher education, employability, and community resilience.

Continuity

What continues next

Sustained Engagement

Ongoing support for academic programs and teacher mentorship

Capability Expansion

Introduction of additional learning resources, workshops, and extracurricular activities

Partnership Deepening

Strengthening collaboration to enhance reach and quality of education delivered

Education transforms lives most powerfully when it is patient, personal, and sustained.

Leap 300

For many adults from underprivileged backgrounds, opportunity does not arrive early. It is delayed, interrupted, or narrowly defined. Skills remain informal. Ambition remains unstructured. Stability feels distant. Leap 300 exists to change that equation.

Karan Bajaj, after two decades in the corporate and startup world, founded Leap 300 with a clear belief that non-profits need the same operational rigor and structured support as successful enterprises. The initiative focuses on adults who are ready to rebuild, reskill, or reposition their lives but lack the systems to do so. Through mentorship, skill development, healthcare access, and resource assistance, Leap 300 works across multiple dimensions of self-reliance rather than addressing livelihood in isolation.

At 37, he did not seek charity. He sought direction. With support under the Leap 300 program, he has established his own Mobile Services Shop in his locality. The business addresses a real service gap. Previously, residents travelled long distances for basic mobile repair services. Today, they have a nearby solution.

Within the first few weeks of operation, Mithilesh generated Rs. 9,000 in earnings. More importantly, he maintains daily records of income and expenses, tracking performance with discipline and intent. This is not just entrepreneurship. It is behavioural change. Structure replacing uncertainty. Accountability replacing dependence.

ANG Foundation's support to Mithilesh through Leap 300 reinforces a simple principle. When individuals are provided the right mix of guidance, tools, and accountability, enterprise becomes viable. Progress becomes measurable. Confidence becomes visible.

The shop may be small in scale, but its meaning is larger. It represents the shift from assistance to agency.

Intent

Skill Development

Strengthening employability and entrepreneurial capability.

Mentorship and Direction

Providing structured guidance to set and achieve goals.

Well-Being Support

Ensuring health and stability alongside livelihood development.

Sustainable Impact

Demonstrating how targeted intervention creates lasting change.

Execution

Financial Sponsorship

Support under Leap 300 for structured training and development

Business Enablement

Tools and vocational training for establishing a Mobile Services Shop

Mentorship

Goal-setting and accountability guidance

Ongoing review and feedback through program coordinators

Health and Wellness

Access to healthcare and wellness support

Mithilesh Kumar

Outcome

Established his own Mobile Services Shop

Earned Rs. 9,000 within the first few weeks

Maintaining daily financial records demonstrating business discipline

Filling a local service gap previously unmet

Why This Matters

Focused support has enabled Mithilesh to transition from dependence to entrepreneurship, creating income, confidence, and local economic contribution.

Continuity

Business Growth Support

Ongoing mentorship and skill enhancement

Expanded Capability

Exploring additional training to strengthen services and revenue

Progress Monitoring

Regular review to identify opportunities for improvement

Program Expansion

Potential support for additional participants under Leap 300

Lasting change begins when support evolves into ownership.

B.S.Negi Mahila Pravidhik Prashikshan Sansthan

For many young women from underprivileged backgrounds, opportunity is not absent because of lack of ability. It is absent because of access. Education may stop early. Employment options remain narrow. Economic dependence becomes normalized.

B.S. Negi Mahila Pravidhik Prashikshan Sansthan was established to interrupt that pattern.

With a legacy of more than three decades, the Sansthan has built trust as one of the region's long-standing vocational training institutions for women. Its mission is straightforward: equip underprivileged girls with practical, employable skills that translate into income, independence, and confidence. Training spans livelihood-oriented trades such as tailoring, computer literacy, handicrafts, and other vocational disciplines designed to create real economic pathways.

Yet the institute's work extends beyond technical instruction. Programs are structured to cultivate discipline, leadership, problem-solving ability, and self-belief. Students are not only taught a trade. They are prepared to navigate workplaces, manage finances, and contribute meaningfully within their families and communities.

Through Project Sahyog, the Sansthan deepens this commitment by ensuring that girls receive not just skills, but guidance, mentorship, and sustained support. The goal is not short-term certification, but long-term capability.

ANG Foundation's partnership with the Sansthan reflects a shared belief: when young women gain skills and confidence, the effect extends beyond the individual. It reshapes households, strengthens communities, and gradually shifts social expectations.

The transformation is rarely dramatic. It is steady. A girl who once hesitated begins to speak with clarity. A trainee becomes a wage earner. Confidence replaces constraint. Skill becomes agency.

This is empowerment built on competence, not symbolism.

From Access to Agency

A Structured Path to Women's Empowerment

Intent

Why this support exists

Skill-Based Empowerment

Providing vocational training that enables income generation.

Life Skills and Confidence

Strengthening leadership, discipline, and problem-solving abilities.

Economic Independence

Reducing dependency through employable skill development

Community Upliftment

Creating ripple effects through empowered young women.

Execution

What was enabled

Project Kanya – Skill to Success (2023–25)

Two girls supported

Successful completion of vocational training

Equipped for livelihood opportunities

Project Sahyog (Current Year)

Four girls currently supported

Access to vocational training and life skills programs

Ongoing mentorship and personal development guidance

Institutional Strengthening

Resource support and program continuity

Structured monitoring and progress tracking

Outcome

What changed

Direct Beneficiaries

6 girls supported over two years

Two graduates of Project Kanya

Four currently enrolled in Project Sahyog

Observed Outcomes

- Practical skills in tailoring, computer literacy, handicrafts, and other trades
- Increased confidence and communication ability
- Pathways toward income generation and economic independence
- Enhanced leadership and decision-making skills

Why This Matters

When underprivileged girls gain employable skills and self-belief, they contribute financially to their families, pursue further opportunities, and influence social attitudes toward women's education and work.

Continuity

What continues next

Program Expansion

Sustained support for Project Sahyog with potential to increase beneficiaries

Capability Enhancement

Exploration of additional vocational and mentorship initiatives

Monitoring and Accountability

Regular progress tracking and impact assessment

Partnership Building

Strengthening collaborations to widen opportunity networks for girls

Empowerment becomes lasting when skill, confidence, and opportunity converge.

Movement Mantra

Parkinson's disease gradually alters movement, balance, and coordination. It can shrink physical confidence and, over time, social participation. For many individuals, the condition brings not only medical challenges but also isolation.

Movement Mantra was created to respond differently.

Rather than centring limitation, the organisation centres movement. Through structured programs that include dance therapy, guided exercises, adaptive fitness, and creative expression, Movement Mantra works to improve mobility, coordination, and emotional well-being. Participants are encouraged to move deliberately, express openly, and reconnect with their own bodies in ways that restore confidence.

The approach is holistic. Physical therapy is complemented by storytelling, performance, and shared spaces where individuals can interact, reflect, and build community. Emotional resilience becomes as important as muscular strength. Social connection becomes as vital as symptom management.

One of the most visible expressions of this philosophy is the 'Still Dancing' event. More than a performance, it is a statement.

Participants living with Parkinson's step onto a public stage, not as patients, but as performers. Movement becomes assertion. Presence becomes visibility. Courage becomes collective.

ANG Foundation's support to Movement Mantra is rooted in the belief that dignity must remain central to care. By enabling platforms such as 'Still Dancing,' the Foundation strengthens spaces where individuals with Parkinson's are seen not through their condition, but through their capacity for creativity and expression.

In these moments, dance is not symbolic. It is practical resistance against decline. It is a reminder that movement, however altered, remains deeply human.

Intent

Creative Empowerment

Using movement and expression to restore confidence and agency.

Public Awareness

Increasing understanding of Parkinson's disease within communities.

Social Inclusion

Creating platforms for interaction, storytelling, and shared participation.

Celebrating Resilience

Honouring courage and perseverance in the face of physical challenges.

Execution

Event Sponsorship

Support for the 'Still Dancing' event celebrating Parkinson's heroes

Participant Facilitation

Dance, music, and storytelling platforms

Structured movement and creative engagement

Community Engagement

Encouraging participation to foster empathy and inclusion

Recognition

Public acknowledgement of participants' achievements

Individuals living with Parkinson's who participated in 'Still Dancing'

Outcome

Increased confidence and visibility

Strengthened emotional resilience

Enhanced social connection and sense of belonging

Broader public awareness of Parkinson's challenges and capabilities

Why This Matters

When individuals with Parkinson's are provided platforms for expression, the narrative shifts from limitation to possibility, fostering dignity and inclusion within society.

Continuity

Program Support

Continued backing for Movement Mantra's therapeutic and creative initiatives

Skill-Building and Mentorship

Workshops and training sessions to deepen capability and expression

Expanded Reach

Engagement with communities, schools, and organisations to broaden participation

Sustained Awareness

Ongoing efforts to challenge stereotypes and promote inclusion

Inclusion becomes real when visibility replaces invisibility.

Project Elevate

Across India, athletic talent often emerges long before opportunity does. For many young athletes from underserved communities, ability alone is not enough. What stands between promise and performance is access: to training, to care, to guidance, and to exposure. Project Elevate was created to bridge precisely this gap.

Project Elevate works with aspiring athletes who have already demonstrated potential but lack the ecosystem required to progress. The initiative recognises that excellence in sport is never the outcome of talent in isolation. It is shaped by disciplined training, informed coaching, medical and nutritional support, and the mental resilience that comes from mentorship and competition experience.

Within Project Elevate, athletes are treated as whole individuals, not just performers. Physical conditioning is supported by injury prevention, rehabilitation, and recovery. Competitive preparation is matched with psychological readiness and long-term career thinking. Exposure to national and international competitions allows athletes to test themselves against higher benchmarks, building confidence alongside capability.

For many participants, this is the first time their ambition is met with structure. Training becomes consistent. Setbacks are managed rather than endured alone. Progress is monitored, not assumed. Over time, athletes begin to see a pathway where earlier there was only uncertainty.

ANG Foundation's association with Project Elevate is rooted in a belief that talent deserves infrastructure. By supporting an initiative that already understands the demands of high-performance sport, the Foundation contributes to an ecosystem where potential is not lost to circumstance.

This is how athletes move from aspiring to competing, and from competing to believing they belong on larger stages.

Intent

Skill Development

Strengthening technical ability and performance through structured training.

Access to Care

Ensuring athletes receive professional medical, nutritional, and rehabilitation support.

Competitive Exposure

Creating pathways to national and international competition.

Holistic Growth

Building resilience, discipline, and long-term athletic confidence.

Execution

Training and Competition

Sponsorship of training programs

Support for participation in competitive events

Health and Performance

Medical assistance and physiotherapy

Nutrition and rehabilitation support

Mentorship

Guidance from experienced coaches and senior athletes

Ongoing performance and career direction

Resource Mobilisation

Collaboration to attract funding and resources for athlete development

Outcome

Improved performance and competitive readiness

Increased confidence and clarity of career pathways

Success at national and international events

Continuity

Expansion

Extending support to additional sports disciplines and regions

Capability Building

Strengthening training facilities and mentorship frameworks

Excellence in sport is built when talent is met with care, discipline, and opportunity.

Why This Matters

When talent is supported with the right ecosystem, it translates into sustained performance and broader representation of Indian athletes on global platforms.

Rakhi Kumari

Rakhi Kumari's ambition is clear. She wants to represent India in athletics. For a student from Delhi whose father works as a security guard, that dream carries weight. It demands discipline, stamina, and belief, often in environments where access to professional training and consistent educational support is limited.

Rakhi's athletic journey began with strong performances in shot put, discus throw, and the 200 metre sprint. Her early promise translated quickly into results. She won multiple gold medals and was named Best Athlete of Zone 24 in 2022, recognised for her all-round excellence across events. Since then, she has represented her school at inter-zone competitions and secured podium finishes in numerous marathons and athletic events across Delhi and the NCR.

Her achievements reflect both versatility and endurance. She has earned top positions in events such as the Night Marathon, SBI Marathon, Global Goals Run, and Rajghat Drugs Awareness Marathon. She secured first place twice at the World Tourism Day Runs in 2025 and achieved third place at the PNB Bank Marathon. Her participation in 5 km and 10 km marathons demonstrates sustained focus and competitive resilience.

Behind these results lies daily training, academic commitments, and the quiet work of perseverance. Rakhi's journey is not built on single victories, but on consistent effort and incremental growth. She trains with seriousness, aware that each competition is both a test and a step forward.

ANG Foundation's support to Rakhi is grounded in the belief that talent must be matched with opportunity. By enabling her to continue her school education alongside athletic training, the Foundation strengthens the foundation beneath her ambition. Education provides stability. Sport builds discipline. Together, they create a pathway toward national representation.

Rakhi is still at the beginning of her journey. But her trajectory already reflects the discipline, confidence, and drive required of an athlete who aims beyond local podiums toward international arenas.

From Promise to Performance

A Structured Path to Excellence

Intent

Why this support exists

Educational Continuity

Ensuring uninterrupted schooling alongside athletic training.

Skill Development

Strengthening technical ability in track and field events.

Performance Exposure

Supporting participation in competitive events across Delhi and NCR.

Resilience and Discipline

Fostering the mindset required for long-term athletic growth.

Execution

What was enabled

Academic Support

Sponsorship of school fees

Provision of essential educational resources

Athletic Development

Assistance with coaching

Support for sports gear and competition participation

Mentorship

Guidance and encouragement to enhance morale and performance

Outcome

What changed

Observed Outcomes

- Multiple gold medals in shot put, discus throw, and 200 metre sprint
- Best Athlete of Zone 24 in 2022
- First place twice at World Tourism Day Runs 2025
- Third place at PNB Bank Marathon
- Consistent podium finishes in major marathons and athletic events

Why This Matters

Sustained support has enabled Rakhi to balance academics and athletics effectively, strengthening her confidence, competitive readiness, and long-term pathway toward national-level participation.

Continuity

What continues next

01 Advanced Preparation

Ongoing educational and athletic support in preparation for national-level events

02 Skill Refinement

Shri Mata Ji Gaushala

In Barsana, in the sacred geography of Braj, service is not separate from spirituality. It is its expression. Within this landscape stands Shri Mata Ji Gaushala, an institution that has grown from a small act of rescue into one of the largest cattle shelters in India.

Established in 2007 under the vision of Ramesh Babaji Maharaj, the Gaushala began with two rescued cows. Today, it shelters over 55,000 sick and neglected cows and Nandis, offering food, medical care, and structured systems for welfare. The scale is vast, but the guiding principle remains simple: care must be continuous, dignified, and organised.

Barsana itself carries deep spiritual resonance as the birthplace of Shri Radha Rani. Over the decades, Babaji Maharaj translated devotion into structured service. His work in animal welfare, environmental advocacy, and community upliftment earned him national recognition, including the Padma Shri Award in 2019. His mission extended beyond cattle care to include river protection, plantation drives, pilgrim welfare, and community health.

Under the stewardship of Braj Sharan Babaji Maharaj, the Gaushala has strengthened operational systems, expanded infrastructure, and introduced sustainable models for fodder management, water systems, and waste utilisation. Spiritual leadership here is inseparable from administrative discipline.

The Gaushala is not only a shelter. It is an ecosystem. It supports feeding programs for the underprivileged, medical facilities for poor patients, plantation initiatives across leased hillock land, and structured waste management systems. Renewable energy and cow dung utilisation have been integrated into its long-term sustainability framework.

ANG Foundation's association with Shri Mata Ji Gaushala reflects a belief that compassion must be institutionalised. By supporting infrastructure, sustainability, and community-facing initiatives, the Foundation strengthens systems that allow service to operate at scale.

In Barsana, devotion has taken operational form. Care is not symbolic. It is organised, measurable, and enduring.

Animal Welfare

Ensuring proper nutrition, medical care, and structured shelter for cattle.

Environmental Responsibility

Promoting renewable energy, waste management, and plantation initiatives.

Execution

Nutrition and Welfare

Support for feeding and palan poshan of cattle

Provision of fruits for visitors on special occasions

Community Care

Organisation of Bhandaras for underprivileged communities and visitors

Establishment of a medical lab offering free facilities to poor patients

Provision of drinking water tanks for devotees

Infrastructure Development

Supply of marble and granite for sheds, kitchens, guest houses, and offices

Assistance in raising contributions from donors

Community Support

Extending feeding programs, medical services, and amenities to visitors and local communities.

Infrastructure Strengthening

Enhancing facilities for long-term operational efficiency and sustainability.

Sustainability and Revenue

Facilitation of manure sales in Delhi

Support for collection and processing of plastic waste

Facilitation of a CBG plant using over 400 tons of cow dung daily

Gas connection from plant to kitchen facilities

Environmental Stewardship

Plantation of trees, bushes, and grass across 200 acres of leased hillock

Water supply systems from ground to hillock for plants and cattle

Outcome

55,000+

cattle receiving structured care and nutrition

Why This Matters

By aligning animal welfare, environmental sustainability, and community service, the Gaushala operates as a model of integrated compassion at scale.

Community Impact

Improved access to food, water, and medical facilities for visitors and underprivileged individuals

Strengthened volunteer and donor participation

Environmental Gains

Renewable energy generation through CBG plant

Structured waste processing

Expanded plantation initiatives

Operational Sustainability

Revenue streams through manure sales

Reduced cooking costs via gas integration

Continuity

Sustained Feeding and Medical Support

Ongoing nutrition and welfare for cattle and community members

Eco-Expansion

Further development of renewable energy and waste management systems

Infrastructure Enhancement

Continued upgrades to water systems, kitchens, and visitor facilities

Awareness and Participation

Strengthening outreach and donor engagement to sustain the mission

When compassion is organised at scale, it becomes sustainability.

Where
Discipline Meets
Ambition

Squash Xtreme Academy

In a sport often perceived as elite and inaccessible, Squash Xtreme Academy has built a different pathway. It trains young athletes not only to compete, but to endure, adapt, and aspire.

Headed by Dhruv Dhawan, the academy combines structured technical coaching, fitness conditioning, and competitive exposure to prepare players for state, national, and international tournaments. Training is deliberate. Footwork is refined. Endurance is built. Discipline is internalised.

Beyond performance metrics, the academy emphasises resilience and sportsmanship. Young players are taught to manage pressure, recover from defeat, and compete with integrity. For those with serious aspirations, squash becomes more than a sport. It becomes a framework for character.

A defining element of the academy's work is its weaker sections program. Talented players from grassroots communities, including Dhampur, are provided free boarding, lodging, and professional training.

This is not symbolic inclusion. It is structural access. Players who might otherwise remain unseen are brought into an ecosystem that prepares them for serious competition.

ANG Foundation's partnership strengthens this model. By supporting coaching, tournament participation, and mentorship, the Foundation reinforces a system where ambition is matched with infrastructure. The objective is not isolated victories, but sustained development.

Within these courts, talent is disciplined into performance. And performance becomes representation.

Intent

Why this support exists

Widen Participation

Position squash as a competitive pathway for diverse young athletes.

Character Formation

Instil discipline, resilience, and sportsmanship.

Execution

What was enabled

Coaching and Fitness

Funding structured coaching and performance programs

Access to professional fitness and skill development

Mentorship

Kalyani Kala Mandir

Kalyani Kala Mandir is dedicated to preserving and promoting the rich heritage of Indian classical performing arts, with a strong focus on Bharatanatyam and classical music. It nurtures not just performers, but informed artists, encouraging students to understand the depth, history, and discipline behind every movement and note.

Founded by Rashmi Khanna, a distinguished Bharatanatyam exponent, choreographer, and educator, the institution is deeply shaped by her artistic journey and vision. Trained in the Dandayudapanipillai style from a young age, her work is known for its precision, expressive strength, and commitment to both tradition and innovation. Over the years, she has received multiple recognitions for her contribution to the arts and continues to perform, teach, and mentor across platforms in India and internationally.

With a commitment to excellence, the institution creates a space where passion meets rigorous training, enabling students of all levels to grow with confidence, creativity, and cultural awareness, while carrying forward a legacy that is both rooted and evolving.

What We Do

Training at Kalyani Kala Mandir blends practice, theory, and performance to offer a holistic learning experience:

- Dance Training – Structured Bharatanatyam sessions tailored to skill level, building technique and discipline through regular practice.
- Dance Education – Theoretical grounding in history, music, and the principles of Natyashastra, deepening artistic understanding.
- Performances – Annual showcases and curated productions, giving students a platform to present classical, folk, and contemporary interpretations.
- Music & Nattuvangam – Training in Carnatic vocal music and rhythmic accompaniment for a well-rounded artistic foundation.

The Larger Vision

Beyond training, the institution fosters discipline, expression, and cultural continuity—shaping individuals who carry forward the legacy of Indian arts while evolving with contemporary sensibilities.

Prime Minister's National Relief Fund

In moments of national emergency, response must be immediate, coordinated, and credible. Natural disasters, major accidents, and health crises do not allow for gradual intervention. They demand readiness and scale.

The Prime Minister's National Relief Fund was established to meet precisely such moments. Created to provide financial assistance to individuals and communities affected by calamities, the Fund operates as a central mechanism for disaster relief, medical support, and rehabilitation across India.

From natural disasters to serious health emergencies, the PMNRF deploys resources to those in urgent need, ensuring that relief reaches affected populations efficiently. Its mandate extends beyond immediate response to supporting recovery and long-term rehabilitation.

ANG Foundation's contribution to the Prime Minister's National Relief Fund reflects a recognition that national-scale challenges require national-scale mechanisms. By directing support through an established, accountable framework, the Foundation aligns its corporate social responsibility efforts with broader public welfare priorities.

This is not a program defined by visibility. It is defined by readiness. When crises strike, structured relief systems matter. Contributing to such systems ensures that assistance reaches vulnerable communities swiftly and responsibly.

From Contribution to National Impact

A Structured Commitment to Public Welfare

Outcome

What changed

Contribution deployed within a national framework designed for rapid relief and recovery

Why This Matters

Supporting a centralised relief mechanism ensures resources are allocated efficiently, transparently, and at scale during times of urgent need.

Individuals and communities affected by disasters and health emergencies across India

Continuity

What continues next

Ongoing Commitment

Sustained alignment with national disaster relief and welfare priorities

Responsible CSR

Continued evaluation of opportunities to contribute to structured, large-scale humanitarian initiatives

In times of crisis, collective responsibility strengthens national resilience.

We do not see this work as a programme

We see it as

continuity

The coming year will focus on strengthening what exists — deeper engagement, stronger accountability, and more thoughtful measurement. Not to professionalise giving, but to honour it.

Change rarely announces itself loudly. It happens in persistence — in the student who stays in school, in the athlete who keeps training, in the young mind that finds support, in the skill that finds its first opportunity.

If we can help create even a few such turning points, then we are fulfilling what was passed down to us.

To build well.

To give responsibly.

And to ensure that what we have received continues forward.
